About me

An experienced IT and Software support technician with nearly 15 years' experience of supporting IT hardware and software, web sites and intranets along with some web and software development for the public and private sector. Always having had a creative side I sought a career change and have been working on my Graphic Design skills and experience having already used some of those skills in past web design and development work. Hard working, with great communication and inter-personal skills I can work well as an individual and as part of a team.
